Incredible I'm from Melle Mel generation, respect the OG, but really you can't compare the past and present times have changed. As for EM, he earned his place.

The thing is, it's not just about rap ability - Eminem is one of the best with regards to ability and putting words together. What made Em different though was his storytelling and how we wasn't just talking about the hood and gangster shit. That's what set him apart, and there's only a few others that can story tell like that with JayZ being one which is why he's black and is at the top of the billboard 100 rappers list and is also the richest of them all. Mel is just a hater because he, underneath the flows and rhymes actually had nothing to say.

He was the first white rapper to make it and be consistently with it. Late 90s is when he blew up, with "Hi My Name Is". Also he had a rap icon in his corner.

People act like Em is the only white rapper ever. Many of them tried but never came close to. Eminem is where he is because his lyrical skills are crazy and yes, he is one of the greatest of all time for sure.

I listen to Busta way more than I listen to Em. He was my first fav rapper growing up. That being said... Busta does not rhyme better than Em.

Em said it himself that he was awarded Grammy's and other awards before most of the rappers that came before him, and he knew why it was happening. That is why he used to not accept any Grammy he won. Lyrically, the man is a monster!

Slim Shady was Marshall's alter ego that helped A LOT of Millennials get through poverty & bullying by a way of humor. Laying in bed with my portable CD player, and as I closed my eyes, it was like the film to a movie would start. He painted a picture in your head, lyrically. Sharing his "rock bottoms", and then seeing his success, gave us hope. Shady is undoubtedly one reason that many of us Millennials, aren't so sensitive. He didn't sugarcoat his opinions and had the balls to say what we secretly all think. People can hate him all they want, but his music means too much to many to ever get canceled...

Eminem, tiger wood & Williams sisters. Being different in your space is marketable, it is what is. Doesn't take away from their talent.
